

Abingdon Learning Trust to become ALT Trust from September 2026

Abingdon Learning Trust will be changing its name to ALT Trust from September 2026.

The change has been agreed by Trustees as part of the Trust's long-term development. While the Trust began in Abingdon and remains proud of its origins, its work now extends across a wider geographical area. Trustees agreed that the name ALT Trust better reflects the Trust's role today and its future direction, while retaining continuity with the abbreviation already commonly used.

This is an evolution of the Trust's identity, not a change to its purpose or values. School names, school identities, governance arrangements and day-to-day education for pupils are not changing.

The Trust's commitment to high-quality education, inclusion, wellbeing and strong community relationships remains central to its work. Further information will be shared as the transition takes place ahead of September 2026.
